Improving Attendance with Shared Transport

Anupriya, the Headmaster of Government Primary School in Rampur village, Sitamarhi district, Bihar, noticed that many students who lived far from school were unable to attend regularly due to a lack of transport. Some students had to travel 3-5 kilometres to reach school, often on foot, as there were no regular public buses or autos in the area. Parents were busy with daily wage work and couldn't accompany their children every day. Anupriya discussed the issue in the School Management Committee meeting and identified students facing travel difficulties. They met the Gram Panchayat members and requested local transport support. With their help, a shared auto service was arranged for children from distant hamlets. Parents and the Panchayat shared the cost - the Panchayat covered fuel once a week, and parents contributed a small monthly amount. Teachers coordinated pickup and drop timings to ensure children reached school safely. At first, parents were hesitant to send children in a shared vehicle. Anupriya overcame this by assigning a teacher to supervise the pickup point for the first few weeks. Once they saw it was safe, everyone was supportive. The solution took 4 weeks to complete. The teachers helped identify students and manage timings. The Gram Panchayat provided local support and a vehicle connection, and parents contributed financially and helped maintain discipline. Attendance improved from around 68% to over 90%. Children are more regular and punctual now. Parents also feel relieved and more connected to the school.
